TAFT SAYS HE MAY SUPPORT AID TO GREECE

Wants Strict Control of Distribution Method with No Overlapping.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — [illegible] signs of a progressively [illegible] official attitude toward Russia, Senator Taft (R-[illegible]) said today he may support President Truman's proposal to [illegible] $400,000,000 to keep Greece and Turkey out of Communist hands.

The GOP leader's indicated backing of the aid plan—with reservations—narrowed the field of possible congressional opposition as these two developments signaled an apparent new diplomatic trend.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said he regards as "very significant" a statement by Dean Acheson, acting secretary of state, that there will be American "reaction" to any situation similar to the one which has developed in Greece and Turkey.

Assertions by William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Moscow that (a), the Soviet Union intends to make an 'ultimate assault" on this country and (b) if Russia had the atomic bomb it would already have been dropped on the United States"

Taft said in an interview that he supports Mr Truman's program he wants to be certain the state, war and navy department don't work at cross purposes" in handing out supplies and technical advise to the two countries

There should be a five-man commission on the ground to direct all of the activities," he said. Where you have two or three government departments engaged in the same project, you always have a mess unless there is some directing authority"

Acheson's indication that the United States will be ready to act although he said he could not specify what form the action would take—came in questioning before the senate committee yesterday

That was a very significant point Vandenberg told a reporter

The Michigan senator has been particularly interested in American policy in China He has suggested the time may have arrived when it would be wise to support the nationalist government there in its struggle with Communist elements.

Warning Russ Intend To Attack U. S. Stirs Solons

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—Testimony by former Ambassador William C Bullitt that "time is running short" because Russia definitely intends to "assault" and conquer" the United States stirred the house committee on un-American activities today.

It produced

A call from Chairman Thomas (R-NJ) for an immediate "showdown to put American relations with the Soviet Union on a strict give-and-take basis

Suggestions from Rep Bonner (D-NC), for a "show of strength" to Russia and for "arousing America to the Soviet menace."

A proposal by Rep. Rankin (D-Miss) that the United States lay in an "ample" supply of atomic bombs and enough planes and pilots to handle them

Bullitt appeared before the committee yesterday at hearings on bills to outlaw the Communist party He said the time is not ripe for that.

He said Americans are not yet sufficiently aware of 'the danger of them in the existence of the party and the determination of the Soviet Union to conquer us" to support the heavy penalties which would be necesary to enforce such a ban

Testifying under oath, Bullitt declared that if Russia had the atomic bomb, 'it would already have been dropped on the United States."

Bonner asked the question that brought that statement. He told a reporter later he was so "shocked" he neglected to ask what should be done about the danger and about safeguarding America's atomic bomb secrets

"It took the wind right out of me," he said

Bullitt called the Communist party a "Soviet agency designed to weaken America for the ultimate assault Soviet Russia intends to make on the United States"

He said it is composed of "potential traitors" And he said it is a conspiracy to commit murder on a mass scale."

9 DEMOCRATS FLAY TAX BILL

Ways and Means Committeemen Call Measure "Political Expediency."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Nine Democratic members of the house ways and means committee today assailed the Republican-backed income tax slashing bill as "a discriminatory patchwork of political expediency"

Dissenting from the committee's action last week in approving the measure, the nine declared in a report that the legislation is "neither equitable, timely nor sound"

The bill would cut taxes by a total of $3,840,000 000 Individual cuts would range from 30 per cent for small taxpayers to 20 per cent for most others.

Republican committeemen simultaneously issued a majority report saying present high taxes endanger business prosperity The majority contended the tax slash can be made and between $2,300,000,000 and $3,800,000,000 paid on the $260,000,000,000 national debt

Debate Begins Tomorrow

Debate on the bill begins in the house tomorrow, with a final vote set for Thursday Republicans are confidently predicting victory for the legislation.

However, leading Democratic congressmen believe that President Truman will veto the bill if it reaches the White House in its present form

The Democratic minority on the ways and means group protested that the legislation is a "windfall to the wealthiest taxpayers"

Only an "outraged public," they said, caused the Republicans to revise original plans and grant small taxpayers more than a flat 20 per cent reduction.

The original bill, by ways and means Chairman Knutson (R Minn), proposed a straight 20 per cent cut for all taxpayers

Recalls Truman Urgings

The minority report recalled that President Truman has urged applying any treasure surpluses this year to debt payment instead of tax cutting The report added:

'Today, in addition to obligations held by financial institutions, insurance companies and other corporations, there are 85,000,000 individual bondholders who share in the public debt.

"Our government has a solemn obligation to these bondholders It is now the duty of congress to demonstrate its determination to keep faith by beginning to pay off the debt"

The Democrats further charged that the proposed 30 per cent cut for the lowest brackets is "the thinnest of political sugar coating."

U.S. WORKS TO AVOID APRIL PHONE STRIKE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Assistant Secretary of Labor John W. Gibson flew to New York today for conferences with Bell system officials to determine what government moves can be taken to halt a threatened nationwide telephone strike April 7

The strike deadline was set last night by the 49 member policy committee of the National Federation of Telephone Workers (independent).

The committee also gave the American Telephone and Telegraph Co, until 2 30 p m, today to accept an offer to begin negotiating a settlement of their contract dispute in Washington not later than April 1

The invitation for nationwide negotiations on a $12 weekly pay increase and nine other union demands was extended to President Walter A. Gifford and Vice President C F Craig in charge of operations of the far flung bell system.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 25—More than 20,000 persons employed in Ohio by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co or the Western Electric Co. would be involved in a strike set for April 7 by the national federation of telephone workers, a union spokesman reported today.

Employes would include local and long distance operators, maintenance men, business offices and accounting employes, manufacturing workers and installation men.

Manual and long distance calls of any kind would be cut except for emergency service.

URGES PEACE PACT SEAT FOR ALL NAZI FOES

Marshall Asks That Every Country at War with Reich Have Say.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, March 25 — U S Secretary of State Marshall urged in the foreign ministers council tonight that all nations which declared war on Germany participate in the final peace settlement.

The Marshall recommendation was made as the ministers took up discussion of procedure for the German peace conference

Soviet Foreign Minister V M Molotov urged that Albania and Iran be included among the members of the consultative and information conference which would assist in drafting a preliminary treaty The question of participation of these two countries was referred to the ministers' deputies.

Marshall proposed that the foreign ministers conference, with China, call a peace conference of all states which had been at war with Germany and that all have full and equal rights

Asks Final Treaty

Marshall also urged that, after the peace conference, the foreign ministers draft a final treaty for Germany, considering as top priority all recommendations passed by a two-thirds vote of the conference He asked that note be taken of all other recommendations passed by a majority vote

Russia agreed today to use of the word "Nazi" instead of "Fascist" in the Austrian treaty draft, bowing after a dispute of several months to views of the western powers.

Feodor T Gousev, deputy Russian foreign minister, agreed to the change suddenly and made several other minor concessions which resulted in four-power agreement on six clauses in the Austrian treatment and one partial agreement on another clause

This was the most progress made in any one sitting of the deputy foreign ministers preparing the Austrian accord for discussion by their superiors

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin spent 75 minutes with Stalin last night, presumably discussing revision and strengthening of the British-Soviet alliance, former Secretary of State James F Byrnes' projected 40-year four-power pact against Germany and current German problems confronting the Big Four.

Russians "Very Near" To Making A-Bomb, Says German Atomic Scientist

The account of a German physicist on atomic research in Russia told in the following dispatch is known to British-American military authorities The scientist declared he "feared the result" if he was publicly identified by name.

By RICHARD O'REGAN
Associated Press Writer

NEUSTADT, GERMANY, March 25—A German atom scientist who said he recently 'escaped' from a Russian government laboratory in Moscow, asserted today the Soviet Union is very near to developing an atom bomb

Lifting the curtain on what he described as Russia's 'all out" attempts to match—perhaps better—America's mighty secret, the nuclear physicist said in an interview

"From what I have seen, I believe Russia will have a bomb similar to the United States within three to five years'

Russia's efforts to harness the atom are "relentless," the scientist declared

Sweat Blood Day and Night

"Her scientists are sweating blood day and night"

The scientist said she had returned to Germany 'at the risk of his life' and asserted he hoped to go to the United States soon

Insisting that he must not be identified by name the German professor said some of the "secrets" of Russian atomic research were

(1) "At least 200 German scientists and technicians including some of Germany's foremost nuclear physicists, are working for the Russian government in a virtual paradise on problems of nuclear fission"

(2) More "recruits" are being sought in all zones of Germany, including the American and particularly the Russian "by Russian officers and by Germans sent back to convince former colleagues a paradise is awaiting them"

(3) The German scientists have everything they need for their research — and are treated equally, if not better than Russian physicists "They work in Moscow, in the great spaces of southern Russia and in Siberia, beyond the Urals"

German Equipment Removed

(4) Rare German cyclotrons and other high-voltage equipment used in atomic and radiation experiments" have been moved from the Russian zone of Germany to the Soviet Union"

(5) Some 12,000 engineers and miners, Russian and German, are hunting pitchblende—the source of uranium—in utmost secrecy in Russian-occupied Germany "If they escape and are caught—they are punished in the Russian way," he said

The German said he worked in Russia many months He said he was one of several scientists brought back under escort in an attempt to recruit others He said he escaped 'because I was not willing to work in Russia on problems of atomic energy"

"Should Remain with U. S."

"I feel," he said, "that the atom bomb in the hands of the United States is the only means of securing world peace and the freedom of scientists to continue their work in liberty"

The physicist said he was "deported" from the Russian zone to Moscow late in 1945 Long before that, he asserted, German scientists "already were working in Russia"

"In March, 1945—Before the end of the war—valuable German equipment used in nuclear research already had been packed by German scientists who had made up their minds to go to Russia. They left for Moscow right after the Russian occupation," he declared.

"These men," he went on, "have been working on the most important nuclear problems of the present time and they can be a danger to the United States, for they will surely help Russia develop an atom bomb."

OHIO SENATE WEIGHS FEPC

Opens Biggest Room for Hearings on State Fair Employment.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, March 25—The senate opened its biggest meeting room today for a second hearing on legislation to create an Ohio fair employment practices commission.

Chairman Roscoe R Walcutt (R-Franklin) of the commerce and labor committee said the third floor auditorium was needed to prevent an overflow of proponents such as occurred at the first hearing two weeks ago when scores of persons jammed corridors outside the senate's general hearing room.

Sen Howard Metzenbaum (D-Cuyahoga), sponsor of the bill designed to prevent discrimination in employment, said organizations sending delegates to the hearing included the Akron Council on Race Relations and the Barberton Industrial Union Council, a CIO affiliate.

Speakers listed included Abram Rubin of Cleveland, vice president of the National Smelting Co, W O. Walker, editor of the Call Post, a Cleveland publication, Mrs William Stevenson, wife of Oberlin college's president and co-chairman of the Ohio committee for FEPC and John Price, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars

Race Discrimination Unlawful

Under Metzenbaum's bill it would be unlawful for any employer or employment agency to question any job applicant about his race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry, to keep records of such characteristics, or to advertise a preference based on these characteristics.

Unions would be prohibited from discriminating in membership and the state or its political subdivisions from discriminating among employes on the basis of Solon Probes Cost of Govt.

Ohioan Wants To Know Why Running Country Has Gone Up.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Rep McGregor (R-Ohio), demanded today an explanation of why government costs two to three times as much now as it did before the war.

"I want to know why," he said in a speech prepared for the house, adding that President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the 1948 fiscal year represented an increase of more than $14 000 000,000 over 1940, excluding the army and the navy

"We can, of course, afford an adequate army, navy and air force and whatever is absolutely necessary to give us a full and complete program for national defense and protection for our American way of life," McGregor said

But we can reduce by at least 700,000 those on our federal payroll if we start thinking in terms of what the country can afford with a $260,000,000,000 debt.

"When a family can no longer afford a maid and a gardener, Mama goes into the kitchen and Papa mows the lawn A government in debt, like a family, has to put into effect the same kind of wisdom"

McGregor called on the administration to answer seven questions:

"1. Why should it cost taxpayers almost $700,000,000 more in 1947 than in 1945 to operate regular government bureaus and departments?

"2. Why does the operation

No Communist Can Work For U. S. Under Recent Truman Rule

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 25—A man can be a member of the Communist party but, if he is, he can't work for the government. Why?

That question may have puzzled some people when President Truman on Saturday ordered the firing of any "disloyal" government employe.

James Marlow

Who is a "disloyal" government worker?

Anyone, under Mr. Truman's rules, who is a Communist or fellow - traveler, that is, who follows the Communist "line."

Why then is the Communist party permitted to exist in this country?

Because, under the constitution, all Americans have a right to freedom of speech and opinion.

So Communists are protected by the constitution, although there's talk now in congress of outlawing the Communist party.

Sure To Appeal

If congress passes such a law, the Communists are sure to ask the supreme court to declare the law unconstitutional.

So then comes this question: If a man has a constitutional right to be a Communist, wouldn't that right be interferred with if a government employe is fired because he's a Communist?

This is the government's answer to that.

Working for the government is a privilege, not a right. The government is free to decide who shall and shall not work for it.

Therefore, Mr. Truman can say no Communist can work for the government.

Court Ruled Likewise

And that's the ruling of the federal court, as this story will show.

A man named Morton Friedman had worked for the government from 1935 until 1944.

Then the Civil Service commission fired him because it decided there was "reasonable doubt of his loyalty."

The commission said Friedman had been a member of a "Communist - dominated" organization called American Peace Mobilization.

That organization, before Germany attacked Russia in World War II, had opposed the entry of this country into the war against Germany.

Friedman tried to have the commission's decision in his case set aside by appealing to the U. S. district court and then the appeals court.

Both courts turned him down and upheld the commission's right to fire him. The appeals court said:

"The United States * * * has the right to prescribe the qualifications of its employes and to attach conditions to their employment."

Appeals To High Court

Friedman then appealed to the supreme court which, by refusing to hear him, in effect upheld the two lower courts.

That supreme court action came on March 17. Five days later Mr. Truman ordered all Communists fired from the government.

(Mr. Truman had set up a special commission last November to outline ways for firing "disloyal" people from the government.

(The commission finished its report some time ago and turned it over to Mr. Truman but he didn't act on it until Saturday.)

Friedman's lawyers argued there'd be a government "witch-hunt" if employes could be fired for their political thinking.

Denied By Justice

This is denied by officials of the justice department and the civil service commission.

They say less than five per cent of the government's 2,000,000 employes are likely to be affected by the President's order.

In Friedman's case the people who gave information against him were not made known to him or anyone else.

A top civil service commission said yesterday this practice of protecting informants has been followed in the past and will be followed.

But, he said, after such information is received an investigation is made to decide whether it's right.

A person found to be "disloyal" by his department heads can take various appeals, on up to the civil service commission heads.

IN THE CHRIST OF THE CROSS WE GLORY

In the cross of Christ I glory,
Towring o'er the wrecks of time,
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime.

SO WROTE the poet in one of the greatest of our hymns. Lest we lose the greatness of Calvary in our admiration of the mere symbol, shall we rather place our real attention and emphasis of faith on "the head sublime" that bowed in submission to a Father's will, and from which emitted the words, "It is finished."

There is no efficacy in the cross itself. But it stands, in thought, as the basis for a great truth. O that we, professed believers on Christ, could and would fill our places in His purpose as that wooden cross which lifted His wondrous body did; O that we might lift Him up, exalt His glorious personage as it did! Could its existence in that hour have been transmitted to life and power of expression, it would have cried, 'How honored am I, to be chosen from among all the other trees to bear this blessed form, the Son of God!'"

O that we mortals would but let our hearts absorb His life-giving atoning blood as did that wooden cross on that memorable day! Truly, that peace the angels sang of the night He was born, and which was promised to all men, would envelop us as beneath the cross of Jesus we take our stand, to live, to absorb from Him the infinite benefits of His marvelous grace.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS DISCUSS HOUSING

FHA Officials from Columbus Address Group.

A housing conference sponsored by the Marion Real Estate board was held last night in Hotel Harding.

In addition to realtors, representatives of financial institutions, building suppliers and contractors were in attendance. Clarence M. Long, president of the board, presided.

A. L. Guckert, district director, and Harry E. Niemeyer, administrative assistant in the Columbus office of the federal Housing administration, explained the fundamentals of FHA insured loans. The two men discussed how veterans housing, both for sale and rent could be financed under the FHA insured plan.

Particular emphasis was placed on construction of housing for rent under the National Housing Act. It was explained that under this plan where houses are being built for sale to veterans or being built by veterans or non veterans the federal housing administration would insure a mortgage up to 90 per cent of the appraised value and the mortgage could run for a period up to 25 years.

Under section 608 of the National Housing Act, the speakers pointed out the FHA would insure loans on any project having eight or more units and these mortgages could run for any period up to 32 years. Mr. Guckert also stressed the need for good rental housing for veterans in Marion.

Army Plane, Riddled By Lightning Storm, Brought To Landing

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, March 24—Far East Air Force headquarters told today of the terror-ridden flight of a B-17 Flying Fortress lashed by lightning that riddled it with holes and rocked it with explosions but failed to knock it down.

The Fortress, en route to Okinawa from Japan, ran into sleet, snow, rain—and lightning—while flying at 8,000 feet on the morning of Feb. 26, the announcement said. Lt. Col. Michael N. W. McCoy, Los Angeles, was commanding the ship, and five others were board.

The plane landed at Okinawa after three hours of flying by dead reckoning and the shaken crew found these damages

Seventeen holes through the right wing and aileron; numerous holes from nose to tail with assorted wrinkles, melted wires and other "bruises"; camera doors blown open; part of the underside of the left wing blown out; shield of the loop antenna destroyed; trailing antenna knocked off; No. 1 turbo-amplifier burned out.

McCoy said the first flash of lightning apparently struck the plane's right wing tip. A few minutes later the crew heard an explosion like a 75-mm. cannon's report. Other explosions followed

"That was only the beginning," said McCoy. "The radio floor was blown up against the ceiling of the airplane, all radio sets being burned out. Air was rushing up through the bottom of the fuselage, as the camera doors had been blown off We decided to descend as rapidly as possible in order to ditch the aircraft in case of fire and get out of the weather conditions that were causing the trouble."

The plane emerged from the storm at 1,500 feet. Since it was still flying, McCoy decided to continue to Okinawa three hours away."

Union members say the demands for higher wages are due to the increased cost of living. Harlow B Salter, president of the local plant, said Monday he would withhold any comment until he had received official notification of the action by the union.

The Second Time Through

IN THEIR insistence that the United States should withhold aid to Greece and Turkey lest it stimulate intervention by others, critics of the proposed policy ignore a disturbing similarity.

During events preceding the outbreak of World War II the United States was similarly advised to withhold aid from various nations which were seeking it, lest an abandonment of neutrality stimulate a showdown with aggressor nations already active.

It is said that the United States should not take unilateral action to help existing governments in Greece and Turkey survive pressure brought by Russia because to do so shows contempt for the United Nations. But it is nowhere contended that since the Soviet Union already has shown contempt for the United Nations by unilateral action elsewhere in the Balkans, the question of precedent has become wholly academic.

The behavior of governments, like the behavior of human beings, is influenced by experience. The United States has had the experience of putting too much dependence on moral obligations and depending, beyond the point of reason, on the power of its own words to bring other governments into line. One of the resolutions it made during World War II was never to be betrayed again by its own wishful thinking when national security was involved.

Those who now believe there is no choice but to bolster Greece and Turkey against the possibility of regimes that would be responsible to Moscow have reached that conclusion by a hard line of reasoning. The United States does not seek trouble. It is not interested in the overthrow of any government. It is devoted to the theory of cooperative international security, if and when its devotion is shared by all other governments. But it is not minded in 1947 to be devoted to the theory of cooperative security at the expense of blinding itself to the obvious realities of international danger. If experience had not taught this nation something useful the second time it became embroiled in a world war, American thick-headedness would be as extreme as Mussolini, Hitler and the Japanese war lords believed it was.

All Airplanes Are Obsolete

A SPOKESMAN for Army Air Forces who says all but 500 of its 16,000 planes are obsolete is guilty of a kind of foolery which sorely tempts military propagandists.

They are always trying to depict things either better or worse than they are, depending on circumstances. In 1947, they are interested in making it appear that the United States is impotent, because they hope to check too-sudden disarmament. In 1941, they were trying to make it appear that the United States was insuperable, because war was imminent.

This country was far from insuperable in 1941 and it is far from impotent now. As far as airplanes are concerned, every plane now in existence is obsolete, including the 500 which the AAF spokesman claims are not obsolete. But they are obsolete only in relation to planes which have not yet been made, just as every automobile on the highways is obsolete in relation to automobiles being designed for the future. Obsolete is a treacherous word. Spokesmen for the AAF should use it sparingly.

No Fireworks

REPUBLICANS in congress are sadder but wiser about making friends and influencing voters without political fireworks. Their leaders' credo of restoring government by deliberation and compromise is inviting all the pent-up criticism which had accumulated behind the facade of wartime "unity."

Criticism itself is a healthy sign. The only thing the people need to fear is the lack of criticism, robbing them of the protection of a political opposition. But it is not a healthy sign when criticism harps too healthy on the lack of action for action's sake in congress. Patient men like Senator Vandenberg are reminding their countrymen that the slowness of the 80th Congress is a symptom of returning health; that the haste with which rubber-stamp legislators turned the country upside down in 100 tumultuous days in 1933, was one of the riskiest intervals in the history of legislative government.

Republican congressmen themselves are not immune to the restless urge to be turning the world upside down when it obviously needs no fresh agitations. They have an intra-party problem of discipline. That too is part of the danger, one of the disturbing signs that the United States has lost the knack of government by deliberation and compromise and isn't going to recover it without a prolonged and conscious effort.

Arab chemists once believed that metals were compound substances made up of mercury and sulphur in different proportions.

Before the coming of the white man to America, most of the Indians east of the Great Plains of the United States lived in settled villages and cultivated the soil.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Mallon Defends Objectivity in Reporting.

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Dear Mr. Editor: (an Ohio paper) You write in an editorial: "Of Course Mr. Mallon Isn't a Newsman." I don't think you know news. I do not believe you understand news values. You are like a United Press editor who once cabled his correspondent in Spain: "Your think stuff unwanted", meaning anything the reporter thought about the situation was not wanted, was of no value, whereas such a report would have been more revealing of the situation than all the non-objective statements of all sides then being published.

Think about this news question for a moment! Normally all newspapers publish some daily news which is known not to be true (Russian press accusations for instance), statements of open or concealed propagandists, the view concerning all subjects of a man who may be an expert on only one subject. You carry the speeches of partisans, the foistings of politicians, (even in columns), the hopes of promoters, the statements of press agents. You strain at a reporter but daily swallow an army of promoters, politicians, press agents. You actually pay to get their views, although they themselves are paid and make a living from daily deceiving you. This is run of the mine news, the least valuable news. It is cheap news.

Someone Knows Facts

Yet in every event of a major economic - political international nature, there can be found someone somewhere who knows the truth of the situation or at any rate the facts behind it. This man's views, which are the most valuable news of all, alone are excluded from the run of mine news, which you normally get.

Now nine times out of ten the man (or men) who really knows what is going on, who can fathom the genuine nature of developments, their inspiration, meaning, import, intent, motif—that man cannot afford to be quoted. He does not wish to become involved in public rows; (there can be no money in that for him), or add needlessly to his worries. That is the man I am always seeking, the man who really knows and can pass on an objective account to the public. Your specific editorial criticism concerned a stock market column. The accurate explanation of the inside of the market is certainly greater news than you have obtained from your financial writers. If they had presented such understanding to the public, I would not have mentioned the subject.

You have become confused also about columnists. You are thinking of all of us as lickeses. He went into the columning business for political propaganda purposes, to use the free space you not only furnish him, but actually pay him for filling with political news you formerly received free in the handouts of his press agents. Many other columnists have come directly out of the propaganda machine of the political administration here for political purposes visible to the naked eye. I am not of that school. I was a reporter for a press association here, writing the statements of both sides, or rather their propaganda for many years, which experience showed me the possibilities of objective reporting.

Seeks Out Facts

I am no fakir, interviewing invisible men. Too many great events are happening to think of that. And I am not smart enough anyway to imagine accurately the inside on political, economic and international events. No man could. You should know that. I never write a column without going to the man who I think knows the subject in the news most thoroughly, promising him immunity and protection from abuse for telling me, and then carrying the residue of my gleanings accurately. I do a straight job. Everyone knows it.

Today our world is sick, confused. People are considerably disillusioned. In fact nearly everyone is, concerning the failure of the peace, the possibilities of war, business doubts, union politics, Socialism, Communism and whatnot, and they have largely turned their thoughts into fields where the average newspaper has not been able to follow them—in the fields of philosophy and religion for doctrines to sustain them in their disillusionment. The news from this front is more significant to a greater number of people than the meaningless deception daily given by the propagandists for one side and another.

Now this is news as scarce as gold—and as hard to find—not rehash, not rewrites, not warmed-over old ideas, but the newest, freshest of inspirations from the authorities who will make tomorrow's events. Frankly I fear the readers will soon lose interest in both of us unless we get closer to their current thoughts in this field of reporting. They are not fools.

I am writing you a personal note telling you in confidence the identity of my informant on the stock market column (something I rarely do), and you will recognize that far from being imaginary, he is an internationally recognized authority. For him I will be pleased with an apology. But for myself and your accusations that I am not a newspaperman, that statement is as libelous as anything you ever published and I would like to see you prove it. Yours sincerely, PM.

Those Hash Marks May Really Be Hash

Faced with congressional demands for rigid economy, the Navy has cancelled an order for 38,744 silver-plated fingerbowls.

That's really getting down to bedrock.

In fact, I am fearful lest, in our frenzy to save a few dollars, we repeat the mistakes we made after the last war and scuttle all our finger-bowls.

Think how much comfort it will afford our enemies to learn that ours is deteriorating from a two-ocean to a no finger-bowl Navy.

Consider, too, the complications: Will the chapter by Emily Post have to be deleted from the Blue Jackets Manual?

It would be a crowning ignomy for those who so lately licked the Japs to be reduced to licking their fingers.

Moreover, it's a matter of practicality as well as prestige . . . . How would it be, come another Pearl Harbor, for our first line of defense to be caught greasy-handed?

U. S. Dollar Wins Value Battle

By RAYMOND MOLEY

FOR more than 30 years the American dollar has been the world's dominating, unassailable unit of value. It has sustained attacks from abroad and bad public finance at home. Most of all it has survived the wild predictions of inflation by Americans who should have known better.

In the OPA fight last summer, Chester Bowles and others cried out that if price controls were lifted, disastrous inflation would follow. Such utterances meant to Europeans not small percentage rises in the price level. They meant complete destruction of the dollar.

With such encouragement, various countries decided to meet the dollar in open combat. The Swedish crown had a parity of 23.9 cents. Sweden boldly raised the crown to 27.8 cents.

At almost the same time, Canada raised its dollar from 90 to 100 cents.

The attack widened. Mexico raised the price of its gold to $45, despite our legislated price of $35.

After the Swedish action, prominent Swedish citizens visited the United States. They were astonished to find our price level contradicting the dire predictions of President Truman and Chester Bowles.

When Sweden offered its challenge to the dollar, it had a good supply gold and foreign currency. Under the new value of Swedish currency, every commodity, which had previously cost 4 crowns to import thereafter cost 3½ crowns. Every commodity which had brought, when exported, 4 crowns, yielded 3½ crowns. Imports increased, and exports dwindled. And the Swedish hoard of gold and foreign currency dwindled.

The Swedish minister of trade, Gunnar Myrdal, who had been fooled by predictions of inflation, tried frantically to stop the tide. He cuts imports and he is trying to increase exports. Ultimately, he must go back to the old dollar-crown relationship.

Silver Price Slips

The price of silver has shown that the power of the dollar is stronger than the government. Efforts to fix the price of silver at 90 cents an ounce have failed. We bought a good deal at 90 cents, but economic forces have pushed the price downard. It is now about 70 cents.

The dollar has been strengthened by the removal of several dangers. The creation of new money by the federal government has ceased. The budget is stabilized. Efforts of Republicans to cut the budget have borne fruit. The pressure of deficits has been removed. And the productivity of labor is rising.

But if the Truman doctrine of helping allegedly free people everywhere is carried to its logical conclusion, inflationary processes will again be set in motion. For the President's doctrine has no term and no limit.

The rush from Latin America is beginning. Every country that harbors a Communist party will get in line for a handout. And those countries that have no Communists may well invent some. The demand in congress that the President be upheld is balance by those who are arguing that the credit of the country also be upheld. For the dollar, tough as it has been, is not omnipotent.

Cold Down There

One of the new terms and new conditions discovered by construction men in their wide wanderings during the war is Permafrost. That's the name for the permanently frozen ground in Alaska, upper Canada, Greenland, and Siberia, estimated to cover about a fifth of the land area of the earth. Constructing roads and buildings on this special material requires expert knowledge and technique. Mistakes have been known to fill whole houses with solid ice from thawed moisture forced up through the foundation.—O. S. U. Science and Appliance.

Policy, Not Crusade, Is Need

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A POLICY, as distinguished from a crusade, may be said to have definite aims, which can be stated concretely and achieved if the estimate of the situation is correct. A crusade, on the other hand, is an adventure which, even if its intentions are good, has no limits because there is no concrete program.

To have a policy is like saying that you mean to go from New York to Chicago, traveling by the Pennsylvania Railroad. To go crusading is like saying you intend to go west from New York, without knowing whether your destination is Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco or Honolulu.

In our dealings with the Soviets it is now most necessary to crystallize out of the general conflict a program of definite objectives. It is, I believe, possible to do that. These objectives will be unpalatable to the Soviet government.

But if they are sufficiently concrete, there is reason to think that they will reduce rather than aggravate the embittered division of mankind. To substitute specific aims for vague hostility is the statesman's business in a time of trouble and danger.

For that reason we need to go beyond the so-called Truman Doctrine, which challenges the Soviet Union generally without ever naming it or saying what we want.

As the doctrine stands today it would be impossible to tell whether or not Stalin had yielded to Mr. Truman, and Mr. Truman would not on the basis of his message know what to ask of Stalin if he were in a position to dictate the terms of a settlement.

Soviet Expanding

If the Soviet Union came forward with an unconditional diplomatic surrender, we should be as bewildered as we have been after the unconditional surrender of Germany.

We regard the Soviet Union as an expanding power. We believe it must be allowed to expand farther. We believe, on the contrary, that there can be no peace until it contracts.

Our immediate object is to contain and then to reduce the area of Soviet military power. Communist parties and the Communist fifth columns will continue to exist in most countries. But as a practical matter we should distinguish between Communism supported by the presence of Red army and Communism which, though it be inspired, directed and even financed from Moscow, is not under the aegis of the Red army.

In turkey the Soviet claims at the Dardanelles and in the eastern provinces would, if conceded, bring Turkey under the domination of the Red army. These claims we have decided to oppose.

We are doing this by sending an American naval task force to Turkish waters, and we are proposing also to subsidize its Turkish army. Whether the military subsidy is necessary and wise is debatable, it seems to me.

The question is whether the show of American force would not achieve our object, without keeping the Turks overmobilized indefinitely, if we informed the Soviet government frankly we mean to guarantee the territorial integrity and independence of Turkey and intend to continue this special guaranty until a full settlement of Turkish-Soviet differences had been negotiated.

Pressure on Greece

In Greece there is pressure from the Soviet satellites in the Balkans which, if successful, would mean the loss of Macedonia and the dismemberment of Greece.

We should serve notice in Belgrade and Sofia and in Moscow that any attempt to take advantage of the weakness of Greece will be an unfriendly act, and that the seizure of power in Greece by a Greek Tito would be followed by military measures, such as blockade and the severance of the Peloponnesus and the Greek Islands from the control of such a Greek government.

Within the framework of these guaranties, we then should have liberty of action to insist the Greek civil strife be settled by political means and not by civil war. Having taken a bold stand internationally we could proceed with great caution before we entangled ourselves as partisans in the Greek civil war.

In Central Europe our object is to reduce the area of Soviet military power. That means the evacuation of Austria, Hungary, Romania by the Red army. After that the position of the Communist parties will not be artificially strong. They still will be strong, but not nearly so strong as if the Red Army garrisons were there.

This will not produce "democracy" in eastern Europe. That may take quite a while. But it will greatly reduce the direct pressure of Soviet imperialism. That is not the whole loaf. But it is a good big bite of bread.

In Germany our object is to obtain a German political system which will prevent Germany from becoming again the great power on the continent. If it does become that, it will conspire with the east against the west and with the west against the east.

For that reason we must oppose Molotov's proposals for the revival of a centrally-governed Germany. Only a genuinely decentralized Germany cannot be dominated by Russia or by the United States or by any German national party. That is why we must insist upon decentralization.

Once this is admitted the economic arrangements can be negotiated. For money matters are not fighting matters.

These are definite objectives: A GUARANTY to Turkey until a treaty is ratified covering all Soviet-Turkish disputes.

A GUARANTY to Greece against dismemberment in Macedonia.

A DIRECT WARNING to the Balkans, to Moscow and to the Greek Communists that the seizure of power in Greece will evoke military countermeasures.

THE EVACUATION of the eastern European countries by the Red Army.

A GERMAN CONSTITUTION which distributes German sovereignty among the German states.

THEN A NEGOTIATION for the economic reconstruction of Europe as a whole and of the devastated regions of Russia.

These are proximate and definite objectives, difficult to realize, but not unrealizable. They would constitute a good working American policy for the present and for the near future.

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, March 25, 1937.

More than 6,000 striking automobile workers marched in swirling snow from eight Chrysler Corp. plants they had held since March 8, but prepared to establish picket lines until their strike for exclusive bargaining rights was settled.

The worst snowstorms of the winter swept sections of the middle west and much colder weather was the prediction for the following day. Snow greeted Marionites following a heavy rain, and the mercury dropped to 14 above zero.

The first of four Red Cross first aid stations to be placed on highways in Marion county was opened at the Mochel filling station at Waldo.

Mrs. B. T. Wiant was presented a corsage of handkerchiefs in honor of her birthday anniversary at a meeting of Circle No. 10 of the Ladies Aid society of Epworth M. E. church, at the home of Mrs. Roy Abel on East Church street.

Rev. R. J. Hunter, pastor of the Richwood Baptist church, was a guest speaker at a meeting of the Carpe Diem club at the home of Mrs. S. A. Laymon in Richwood.

Assistant Postmaster L. E. Cookston and Mrs. Cookston of Elm street had returned from a vacation at Merrit and Cocoa, Fla.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, March 25, 1927.

Paul Edward Roberts, 1, drowned in a cistern at the rear of his home on Davids street.

Mrs. Lewis Uhl was reelected president of the Marion County Federation of Women's Clubs at its annual meeting held in the Community House on South High street.

Pupils of Mrs. Artie Vallentine, teacher in Central Junior High school, made a surprise call at her home in the Curtis apartments after school hours in celebration of her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Dallas Harruff was elected president of the L. M. S. club at a meeting at the home of Miss Ethel Richardson on Olney avenue.

The Once Over

Letters for Special Delivery

GOV. MILLARD CALDWELL, Chairman National Committee for Traffic Safety:

Dear Guv: I just read your speech at a meeting of the Traffic Safety Committee in Washington, in which you deplored the "public apathy" toward campaigns for safer auto operation, and almost broke into tears over the fact that cock-eyed driving continued all over the country despite the campaigns, editorials, posters and slogans. Well, Millard, you are right. The crash of colliding automobiles drowned out your words. Every time there is a convention to discuss auto accidents the accidents take a jump, and I will tell you why.

It is because speeches are not a good substitute for brakes, you can't drive sense into an auto driver's head with a manuscript, and all the conventions, banquets, slogans and committee programs on earth will not cut down accidents and tragedies in a land where anybody who can wiggle his ears or whistle through his teeth is regarded as qualified to operate a car, where nine out of ten people getting licenses do not know the elemental rules of the road, and where the enforcement of motor vehicle laws is a laugh.

While a speaker at a Safety Convention is getting the first hundred words out of his mouth a couple of thousand licenses are being issued in this country to halfwits, highway bullies and potential killers who think that no more brains are needed to drive a ten-ton truck than to operate a coffee grinder. In the time it takes a guest of honor at a Drive With Care Conference to say "Ladies and gentlemen" every State in the country turns loose upon the highways men, women and children who have had less instruction in operating a dangerous vehicle than is required to roll a hoop through a Mothers Club picnic.

Before a Safety Convention has gone from the soup to the fish course another hundred thousand cops all over America have yawned and said "What's the use? All a speed maniac needs is the right political influences to get his ticket torn up."

The simple fact right under everybody's nose, Governor, is that no test worthy of the name is imposed on anybody who wants to drive a car. Character and reputation are regarded as non-essentials, the fines for careless driving would not be adequate punishment for picking flowers in Mulligan's Grove and the entire American law enforcement personnel now shrugs its shoulders and grins as the greatest collection of irresponsible drivers in history takes over our highways and says "To hell with everybody."

Hoping this will explain to you and all the other Safety First organizations why people still regard telegraph posts and the upper branches of trees as the safest spots in America I am.

Yours,
ELMER.

Noting the surprise, he adds, "Malley is my brother-in-law. He has to make a living, too."

Elmer Twitchell hopes we never have to sing it "Oh, say can you see by the Dardanelles early light. . . ."

His capacity for fear of fines and hoosegows

Dear Nephew: Today I sunburned the back of my neck. That settles it. Whatever the temperature happens to be from now on, spring is here. As I've been telling you for years, spring isn't so much a thing that happens in terms of weather as a thing that happens in our heads. One day the sun comes out good and warm, it burns the back of your neck, and on that day spring comes to the man with a sunburned neck. If a customer does not get exposed to the sun, spring can't possibly reach him. The key to the whole thing is the sun.

The sun warms the earth, and in due time the earth responds. It warms all the animals and they respond. Only people are stubborn. They hole up in caves and try to insulate themselves against the thing they have been waiting for. All the birds know spring is here. The cardinals are whistling and the robins are hollering—the advance guard is already close enough to be heard. And all the people who have gone south to meet the sun are spring-timed in advance. How about you, kiddo? How's your timing?

I sunburned my neck taking a walk with your aunt through the fields this afternoon. We took along supper and ate it at the sugar camp. It's the first time we've been outdoors for too long to be good for either of us, and we were getting on each other's nerves. Today's journey fixed that. We got things back into their right proportion. We also got our feet muddy.

There may be some people who can thrive on being cooped up forever like rabbits in a hutch but among them is not your Uncle George or your Aunt Effie. I wonder about you, I really do. We talked about you this afternoon. Both of us feel that you are a frustrated fellow who should have been a farmer. You wouldn't have been a good farmer because you are too lazy and not smart enough. But you would have been a happy farmer. Chances are, you'd have been able to make a living at it, which is all most people accomplish. And you'd have had a good time.

I, too, would have been a happy farmer. But I also was lazy. Fortunately, however, I was smart—smart enough to make enough money to live without working any more than I feel like, which is very little. I keep myself from feeling abused by getting out whenever I need the benefit of the good earth and tramping over it. I have all the advantages of being a farmer, none of the disadvantages.

You'd better come up real soon so we can go sucker-fishing together. Nothing like a good sucker to celebrate the coming of spring. Maybe you can get the back of your neck sunburned. Give my regards to the family.

Coliseum Plans Are Considered

Propose To Build Huge Structure for General Use on Fairgrounds.

Tentative plans which propose the construction of a huge coliseum on the Marion county fairgrounds site are now being considered by the Marion county agricultural society and the county commissioners.

The structure would have a normal seating capacity of between 4,500 and 5,000 persons and would be one of the largest buildings of its kind in central Ohio, with the exception of the coliseum at the state fairgrounds in Columbus.

Plans for the building were announced today by Frank M. Foster, president of the Marion County Agricultural Society. Mr. Foster pointed out that the plans still are in the preliminary stage and all details regarding specific location, overall size, and date for starting construction can not be known until further details for the project are worked out.

Originated Before War

The plans have been under discussion by commissioners and fair board members for several weeks, although no official action on them has been taken. The project originally was proposed several years ago, but was dropped because of the war. Backers of the project say they have reached no definite means for financing it.

Mr. Foster stated the structure would be a steel and concrete fireproof building similar to the coliseum at the Ohio state fairgrounds, but more modern in design. Although the overall dimensions have not been determined, the oval in the center would be 150 feet long and 80 feet wide. Regular seating capactiy would be between 4,500 and 5,000, he said, and temporary seats could boost that figure to approximately 6,000.

The building would be provided with heating facilities, showers, rest rooms, a dining hall, and available space for various types of exhibits beneath the inclined seats.

The coliseum would be available to all city and county groups, Mr. Foster pointed out. He suggested it could be used for city and county athletic events, public and parochial school events in the city and county, junior fairs, 4-H club activities, agricultural exhibits, livestock shows, county farm meetings, grange meetings, conventions, district, city and county basketball tournaments or nearly any type of event where a large audience would be assembled.

Advocates of the project believe the building would be particularly suitable for county high school basketball tournaments, since none of the rural schools has sufficient space for the event. Because of the crowds which are drawn to the county tournament it is necessary to hold the event in two locations.

Although no specific site has been picked for the building there are several locations on the fairgrounds which would afford ample space, Mr. Foster said, and at the same time provide for an adjoining parking lot.

EVANGELISTS TO CONDUCT SERVICES HERE

REV. AND MRS. RICHARD LITTRELL

Rev. and Mrs. Richard Littrell of Kansas City, Mo., will open revival services in First Church of the Nazarene Wednesday night. The services will continue each night at 7:30 through Easter, Rev. W. E. Zimmerman, pastor, announced. Sunday evening services will be broadcast over radio station WMRN.

A year ago last summer, Rev. Littrell was evangelist for a Home Missionary revival of the Nazarene church at Waldo. At that time he was not married. His wife now assists him in his services, and she will give special readings and musical numbers as a part of each service here, it was stated.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Difficult Diagnosis

The physician is often called upon to distinguish between two conditions which, though similar, are very different in their effects.

For instance, albumin may sometimes be found in the urine of young adults. This may occur because of a serious kidney disease or it may be due to a harmless condition known as intermittent albuminuria.

It is up to the doctor to decide which state of affairs exists, and he must exercise a great deal of care in doing so. A wrong decision can result either in the neglect of a grave matter or in treating a healthy active youngster as an invalid.

In intermittent albuminuria, the albumin is excreted at irregular intervals. In fact, there are longer periods during the day when the albumin is not excreted than when it is. No other abnormal substances such as red blood cells are found in the urine. Intermittent albuminuria often is first recognized during childhood. It is most frequent in youngsters between the ages of 13 and 16 years, and is uncommon after 25.

A test may be carried out which helps to show that the presence of the albumin is due to intermittent albuminuria. The patient empties his bladder one hour after going to bed in the evening. In the morning immediately upon arising he again empties his bladder. The specimen obtained the first thing in the morning, as a rule, will be free from albumin. The patient lies backward over the edge of the bed with his feet on the floor for about an hour. He then again empties the bladder and this latter specimen usually will be found to contain albumin.

According to Dr. Irving J. Wolman of Philadelphia, intermittent albuminuria is in no way a dangerous condition and after the patent reaches 25 years of age or thereabouts the condition usually clears up. He states that this disorder should not bar a person from getting life insurance.

On the other hand, kidney disease which produces albumin in the urine is serious. Hence, telling one of these conditions from the other is important. As I have mentioned, when the albumin is due to kidney disease, the urine will contain albumin throughout the entire twenty-four hour period and irrespective of whether the patient is lying down or is up and around. In addition, it will also contain red blood cells as well as casts, which are molds of the tiny tubes in the kidney made up of granular or other material.

Whenever albumin is found in the urine a microscopic examination of the urine should promptly be carried out in order to aid the doctor in determining the cause of the difficulty.

U. S. farm output rose one-third between 1939 and 1946, prices doubled and farm income tripled.

"I couldn't understand how anybody could live here at first," she smiled. "We had to bring our flour and meat with us, and when the door opened the wind would be so high the bread would fly off the plate.

"But it was exciting and we enjoyed every minute of it."

Shaded now by sixty varieties of palm trees, the frontier settlement of Fort Myers has grown into one of the most beautiful Florida cities. Edison and Henry Ford helped plan its development.

Varies "Genius" Rule

Some women find it trying to be married to men of fame and genius. Not Mrs. Edison.

"He worked endlessly," she said, "but he was happy and a great tease. He wasn't the type who had to go off into a room of his own and be alone.

"We were always in one room. You didn't have to hush up because he was thinking out some problem.

"He wasn't a grouch—like some geniuses. So my life was all right.

"I gave up what I could have done in the way of club work and other activities. His work was more important than anything I could have done.

"My time was his. I never got tied down with anything that would interfere with his plans."

Best Work Done Here

Some of the inventor's best work was done in his old winter laboratory here. In the evening after dinner he "would jot down fifty new ideas" to try the next day.

"He never was bored and never had a regret," said Mrs. Edison. "And he never was despondent. He'd just pick up and do something else. He was always taking money from one business to help another. He was always poor. But money as such didn't mean anything to him. He would be as happy in a hut as a house."

His curiosity was inexhaustible. "When we went driving, Mr. Edison used to stop the car to peer at roadside plants like a schoolboy," she said.

Discussing her husband, Mrs. Edison often lapses into the present tense. For her he is still alive. The old Maine house and its gardens, where they lived so many happy seasons, has been given to Fort Myers as an Edison memorial.

The city once turned down an offer by Edison to build it a power plant and furnish free lighting. City councilmen thought the electric light would turn out to be nothing but a fad.

SOUVENIR FIREARM REGULATIONS AIRED

Fully Automatic Guns Must Be Registered.

N. V. Foreman, service officer of the American Legion, today called attention to regulations of the National Firearms act designed to prevent the flow of dangerous weapons into improper hands. The information recently was furnished the Disabled American Veterans by the U. S. treasury department.

Former GIs who brought fully-automatic souvenir firearms into the country must register them with the commissioner of internal revenue or face the possibility of conviction and severe penalties, the regulations state. Officials state there are no objections to veterans owning trophies, but many, by illegal sale, theft or otherwise, are finding their way into the hands of criminals who used them to commit murder, robberies and other serious crimes, they state.

The National Firearms Act requires registration of all firearms in certain classifications and calls for a prohibitive transfer tax of $200 on each weapon.

According to the act all veterans must register any firearms they possess in the following five "killer-type" classes.

Any firearm designed or altered so that it is capable of firing more than one shot with one continuous pull of the trigger such as a machine gun or machine pistol. A shotgun or rifle having a barrel length of less than 18 inches, except .22 or smaller caliber rifles. Any other weapon except a pistol or revolver, from which a shot is discharged by an explosive, if such weapon is capable of being concealed on the person. A muffler or silencer for any firearm. A pistol with an accompanying shoulder stock.

To reduce further the crime hazard of souvenir firearms, the internal revenue office is offering free services in rendering them permanently unserviceable. This is done by welding in a manner which does not impair their appearance or value as trophies, which makes them useless or potential killers.

Weapons made unserviceable may be transferred legally without payment of the $200 transfer tax.

WAR'S SECRET PACTS OPENED

Long-Suppressed Clauses of Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam Agreements Revealed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25—A score of long suppressed clauses of the Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam agreements were spread on the record today with an official promise that they were the last of the secrets from the war-time meetings of the Allied Big Three.

The official texts published by the state department included disclosure of an agreement in Tehran by President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill favoring Turkey's entry into the war against the Axis before the end of 1943.

Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson told the senate foreign relations committee yesterday that Turkey's neutrality aided the Allied cause by barring the way to Axis expansion into the Middle East.

The Tehran "military conclusions" spoke of forthcoming negotiations to bring Turkey into the war but left unanswered whether the Turks actually were pressed at the time to join the Allies They eventually did declare a state of war with Germany and Japan effective March 1, 1945, less than three months before V-E day.

Stalin Agreement Noted

Also at Tehran, the agreement disclosed, Stalin pledged that should Turkey become a foe of Germany and as a result be attacked by Bulgaria, Russia would declare war on Bulgaria.

The state department published the official texts at the direction of Acheson, who agreed to the action at last week's hearings in the house foreign relations committee on the proposal for $400,000,000 of aid to Greece and Turkey.

Committee members did not raise any questions about the Cairo, Casablanca and Quebec conferences which Stalin did not attend

4 Sections Revealed

Aside from the Tehran military conclusions, sections whose texts had not been previously published included:

1. A Yalta conference agreement tentatively fixing German reparations at $20,000,000,000 and authorizing payment from current production and use of German manpower. This was disclosed at Moscow last week by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. The United States and Britain have contended that the Yalta plan was superseded at Potsdam.

2. A Potsdam agreement to divide ships of the German navy and merchant fleet equally among Russia, Britain and the United States.

3. A Potsdam agreement that the Montreaux convention governing Turkey's control of the Black Sea straits should be revised "as failing to meet present-day conditions." Each of the Big Three powers was authorized to carry on direct conversations with Turkey on the issue. Soviet Russia's demands have since met with firm U. S. and British opposition.

4. A Potsdam agreement that no reparations should be exacted from Austria. This was cited yesterday at Moscow where Russia supported a Yugoslav claim on Austria for a $150,000,000 payment.

Smith Attacks Sugar Control

Marion Man Heads Bi-Partisan Bloc in Effort To End Rationing.

WASHINGTON, March 25 — When the house last Friday continued sugar rationing until Oct. 31, 1947, and made it possible also to continue the program through sugar inventory control until March 31, 1948, Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion, headed a bi-partisan block effort to terminate sugar rationing and controls immediately and also to strip the President of his questionable power to delegate to the International Emergency Food Council the power to place American sugar in a world pool and arbitrarily allocate back to us whatever the International Council believes the American people are entitled to. The congressman branded this power as unconstitutional and heretofore without congressional approval or sanction

Mr Smith said, "If it is really the intention of congress to end political interference with sugar on that date, the bill should provide for ending price control and rationing of sugar on Oct 31, 1947," and not provide authority to continue sugar controls until March 31, 1948, through inventory control of sugar.

Sees Future Danger

The congressman said if the sugar control legislation becomes law and operates as the advocates say it will, "the International Emergency Food Council, one of the elements of world government, would continue to tell the United States how much sugar we can have This would be true even if the United States increased its own sugar production The people of the United States no longer have the power to say whether or not they shall eat the sugar they produce, that is now left to the one-world government, and this is something we ought to tell the housewives when they write to us for more sugar. Here again the political regime controlling our government, which craves control and more control, is vested with an extra-ordinary power to manipulate our sugar supply."

"In this connection it should be mentioned that the one-world government is not only telling the people of the United States how much sugar they can eat, but also how much wheat and other foods; indeed, it is in the process of applying the same principle to everything we produce. If the people of the United States like this sort of arrangement, if they are willing to share their produce with the rest of the world they have the right to do so. I doubt, however, that they have any such desire."

"Certainly it is the duty of every congressman to inform his constituents of the facts of the situation They should know, if they have not already learned, that the political forces controlling our government are giving America away as fast as they can, and so far as I am aware the United States congress is doing nothing about it; indeed, it is lending itself to supporting this uncertain and suicidal policy."

Challenges Authority

Later in debate, just prior to roll call passage of the bill, Congressman Smith again challenged the authority the President exercises in delegating to the International Emergency Food Council the power to determine how much sugar the American people shall have and asked for any member of the house to rise "and say the President of the United States has that power under the Constitution"

"What I want to get across to the congress and to the country," said Mr. Smith, "is that even though all control over domestic rationing of sugar is repealed, we will still have rationing by the body known as the International Emergency Food Council, and that except for that international arrangement the people of the United States today would probably have all the sugar they want."

"Let us tell the people the truth They should know why they are unable to get more sugar and they should know that the blame for this is upon the congress of the United States. Congress has the power to correct this condition."

SENATOR VOWS QUICK ACTION ON SUGAR

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis), claiming strong Republican backing, said today he will carry to the senate floor his fight to end sugar rationing at once.

McCarthy said efforts to reach a general agreement among the 51 GOP senators on the sugar question had collapsed with rejection of a compromise which he offered.

The present sugar controls expire next Monday Before the senate is a bill approved by its banking committee which would extend controls a year, but give the department of agriculture authority to drop them next fall if feasible

McCarthy and Senator Flanders (R-Vt), who oppose immediate abandonment of rationing, were delegated by the senate Republican conference to seek a compromise McCarthy said it didn't work out

He told reporters he is willing to extend rationing to Oct. 31—the date set in a bill passed by the house — provided the housewife is given a sizeable increase and industrial uses held at present levels until there is sufficient for home canning.

If this proposal fails, McCarthy said, he will revert to the bill which he and Senator Bricker (R-Ohio), introduced to wipe out rationing on the theory there will be enough sugar to go around this year The bill would set up inventory controls to prevent hoarding Export controls would continue

Citizen Groups Join In School Strike Parley

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 25—Two citizen groups today joined forces in an effort to affect a settlement of a pupils' strike which has kept North College Hill junior and senior high school classrooms empty since last Wednesday.

John Pitzer, president of the North College Hill Improvement association, said he had named five delegates to a proposed 10-member arbitration board, remainder of which would be composed of designated members of the Citizens School Improvement league.

Pitzer proposed Howard Wirth, former clerk-treasurer of the suburban community's board of education as conciliator.

Wirth indicated he would accept the role.

All but 24 of the 560 boys and girls enrolled in the two schools remained away from classes yesterday as they continued their protest against failure of a majority of the school board to renew the contract of Dr William A Cook, superintendent of schools fore dayoreak, Safety-Service Director E O Uncapher said.

City service employes also were busy gathering up broken limbs from the streets. Mr. Uncapher said several cases of windows blown in by the wind were reported, although damage did not seem particularly extensive. A show window in the Palace theater building was broken.

Two chimneys were blown down on North State street, one at the home of Marion Cheney of 313 North State and the other at Hotel Ackerman at the corner of East Mill street. At the latter place the fire department was called at 12:45 a. m. when smoke filled the hotel. There was no fire, however.

Spring Snow, Winds Pile Trouble on Ohioans

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—A spring snow hurled by violent winds, piled damage and difficulty upon Ohio today.

It closed schools, snarled traffic, shattered windows, leveled trees and sent Ohioans to work under temperature drops ranging up to 34 degrees

Power lines snapped under the pressure of high winds, which reached velocities of 65 miles an hour at Cleveland, 58 at Cincinnati, 62 in Columbus, and 70 at Akron.

Although a howling reminder of those blasts still lingered throughout the state by midmorning, velocities were down and in many areas the sun heralded predicted temperature rises by tomorrow.

120,000 Students on Vacation

More than 120,000 pupils of schools in Morrow, Summit and Cuyahoga counties took an enforced vacation. Drifting snow made roads in Morrow county impassable.

Every school in Akron and Summit county was idle today except at Cuyahoga Falls An estimated 60,000 pupils were on a holiday.

Most Cleveland public schools opened, but Catholic schools shut down, affecting another 60,000 pupils.

The Cleveland transportation system staggered under the roaring of the March lion, with long delays in bus, street car and train service nearly paralyzing traffic flow.

"This storm equals any I have seen in 37 years of service as far as transportation is concerned," declared L B. Ennes, transportation superintendent of the Cleveland transit system.

Five thousand residents of suburban Fairview and Maple Heights villages welcomed daylight after a power line failure darkened the area.

Lowest Barometer Reading

The barometer at Cleveland read 28 6, lowest in the city's history

The storm respected no section and at the opposite end of the state Cincinnati authorities counted extensive damage from the freak wind and the spring's first electrical display.

The capricious weather had an extra share of fun in Cincinnati.

The wind set off several burglar alarms, sending police and guards on innumerable fruitless chases.

A 20-foot smokestack section blew off, leaving the rest dangling from atop a laundry building A window frame tore loose from one building and ended across the street in a parking lot. Lightning struck two homes

Highways throughout the state were snow-covered and slippery, State Highway Director Murray D Shaffer reported, and in some areas last night's snowfall was still drifting before the howling wind.

Ohioans quickly abandoned more spring-like attire today for the warmth of winter raiment as the mercury plummeted 26 degrees in Akron, 34 degrees in Cincinnati, 27 degrees in Columbus, 29 degrees in Dayton and 22 degrees in Toledo.

But, residents of the state capital took the storm in stride, for old timers remembered that 34 years ago today, Columbus was undergoing a flood in which 100 persons lost their lives and property damage was estimated at $25,000,000.

Springfield experienced three storm types last night. An early evening thunderstorm, with 50 degree temperatures, was followed by gale-like winds which precipitated a 20-degree temperature drop between 9 p. m. and midnight when a snow squall swept into the city.

A howling blizzard struck Cleveland, depositing four inches of snow, felling small trees, paralyzing traffic and topling chimneys. More than a dozen busses were tied up on one slippery hill.

In Richland county scores of abandoned automobiles dotted the snow covered countryside where winds estimated at 50 miles an hour had piled drifts four feet high.

All Mansfield city schools except St. Peter's Catholic and all Richland county schools closed because of influenza absences and drifted roads.

Power Failures Hit Hardin County

KENTON, March 25—Scores of power and communications poles were down in Hardin county today as the result of last night's high winds.

The Rural Electrification office reported its farm power lines were out throughout the county and the Ohio Public Service Co. said many of their poles were down or lines broken by falling branches.

Service also was disrupted in Kenton. Street and traffic lights were off in part of the community.

Kenton High school and Hardin Central school closed until Thursday as icy roads and flu combined to cut attendance.

Road Hazards Close Morrow Co. Schools

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, March 25 — All Morrow county schools were closed today when snow and ice coated roads and made school bus travel hazardous in most sections

A majority of the buses did not make their runs this morning and those pupils who did report to school were sent home. Jonnsville school authorities last night decided to close the school because of muddy roads.

Despite heavy wind in the Morrow county area last night and early today, there were no reports of wind damage.

8 Deaths Attributed To Freak Weather

By The Associated Press

At least eight deaths were attributed today to a lashing March storm that buffeted the central section of the nation with strong winds, heavy, wet snow, sleet and rain.

In Michigan, three children burned to death on a farm near Ithaca after firemen battled through snow for two hours to reach the blaze At Russellton, Pa., a mine foreman was electrocuted by a high tension wire which fell on his parked automobile. In Clarksburg, W. Va., a city councilman was killed when a tree fell on a taxicab in which he was riding Two tennesseeans were killed when they touched high voltage power lines blown loose by the storm, and a Chicago power lineman died repairing a wire.

Lashing winds accompanied by rain, sleet and snow, swept Michigan and Saginaw bay cottage residents watched nervously as 40-foot Lake Huron ice floes ground inland and began crushing an amusement park at Winonah beach, near Bay City The floes were blown inshore by winds reaching a velocity, at times, of 75 miles an hour.

Damage Estimate High

Damage throughout the state was expected to be high as the storm paralyzed many of Michigan's largest cities

The heaviest blanket of snow was in the midwest area. The wind storm covered a wider section, extending into the east and parts of the south. Many sections reported rain, hail and sleet.

Federal forecasters said the snow storm had abated and was moving northeastward across lake Erie up the St. Lawrence valley.

Forecasters in the Chicago bureau said the snow storms developed suddenly in northern Indiana yesterday afternoon and spread over Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Snow Covers 4 States

A blanket of snow ranging from one to four inches covered parts of the four states. A stream of cold air moved down the Mississippi valley and extended over the midwest region Temperatures dropped to as low as 10 to 15 above zero in northern Minnesota and North Dakota, the coldest sections in the country today.

Winds ranged from 50 to 60 miles an hour, with gusts in some communities as high as 80 federal forecasters said Thousands of power lines were toppled, blacking out many communities and cutting off telephone service. Trees were uprooted, buildings damaged and windows shattered

However, the middle and southern Atlantic seaboard continued to enjoy comparatively mild temperatures while similar weather was reported along the Pacific coast. San Diego, Calif., reported a high yesterday of 79.1, the hottest March 24 since 1896.

Two Santa Fe passenger trains, westbound from Chicago, were stalled at Joliet, Ill., as linemen worked to clear the tracks of broken telegraph poles and to restore automatic signal service. Two other passenger trains were held in Chicago.

W.C.T.U. TO INITIATE COUNTY OPTION LAW

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—The Ohio Women's Christian Temperance Union announced today that it would go to the people with an initiative movement for a law providing for countywide local option elections

In her keynote address to the annual mid-year executive committee, Miss Mary B Ervin, president, declared that the state's dry forces were "disillusioned by bold defiance and determination of certain legislators to block all restrictive legislation for the past four sessions or more"

"This is just the beginning of a united campaign to arouse the Christian citizenry to action," she said in her prepared speech. "Action—or inaction—of our state legislature justifies our taking our cause direct to the people. The first use of the initiative will be in the interest of securing a county option bill

The state constitution provides that to initiate a law, that is, to enact one through popular action rather than legislative action, proponents must:

1—Secure signatures of three per cent of the number of voters balloting in the last previous election for governor to petitions asking enactment of such a law

2—Present the petitions at the opening of the next general assembly.

3—If that legislature rejects the proposed bill or fails to act upon it, secure another three per cent.

The procedure has been successful in only one case, the old age pension bill enacted in 1933.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, March 25—After this season's experiences, baseball magnates may decide that the place to train for the great American pastime (or national game, pick your league) is in the United States. While the Yankees got some nice guarantees for their jaunt to Panama and South America expenses took all the dough; the Dodgers didn't make out any too well in Cuba and the Giants and San Francisco Seals have decided not to try Hawaii again although Paul Fagan, part owner of the San Francisco club is eager to publicize his part of that island paradise Seems that Fagan's place on Maui island is a bit too far from Honolulu to attract the crowds.

DOYLE CLEARS ONE COMEBACK OBSTACLE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 25—Sleek and sharp as he was before his forced retirement a year ago, Los Angeles Jimmy Doyle today had cleared one hurdle on his comeback trail.

A year ago Jimmy was in the hospital with a brain concussion after a knockout by middleweight Artie Levine and many thought his ring days were over, but the dead-panned Californian proved last night that he could come back by slashing his way to a clean-cut decision over Brooklyn's hard-hitting Danny Kapilow in a 10-rounder at the arena

The triumph—his fourth in a row since his return to action—earned Jimmy a shot at Ray (Sugar) Robinson's welterweight title here May 26

Doyle started slow, but after Kapilow took the first two rounds Jimmy started to function and from there on left little doubt as to who was in charge

Each fighter weighed 147 The bout drew 6,621 customers who contributed to a gate of $25 487

Kell Rated Best 3rd Sacker in AL

By FRANK ECK
Associated Press Sports Editor

LAKELAND, Fla.—The consensus among big league managers who know third basemen best is that George Kell is the best hot corner guardian in the American League today.

Stout Steve O'Neill, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is willing to go a step farther by saying "Kell is the best third baseman I ever saw in baseball and that includes fellows like Joe Dugan of the old Yankees and Buck Weaver of the Chicago White Sox."

Thumbnail Preview
DETROIT TIGERS
Hitting—Good.
Infield—Fair.
Outfield—Strong.
Pitching—Tops.
Catching—Passable.
Finish—First Division.

Kell, fifth leading batter in the American League last season with a .322 average in 131 games, says he knows the secret of his success now

"Speed Does It"

"It's speed" says the 176-pound redheaded Irishman who was born in Swifton, Ark., 24 years ago "I must have beaten out 25 bunts last season which improved my average exactly 50 points over 1945 when I played for the A's.

"Then Steve put me in the second slot in the batting order and that was made to order for me I also picked up a few points on the hit-and-run play I was able to get to first base two steps quicker than at any time in my career

GEORGE KELL
Speed Makes Difference

"With the Athletics I weighed as much as 198 and never got below 183 Weight like that will slow down a freight train Last year my playing weight was 170 Now all I have to lose is six pounds"

Played College Basketball

Kell played basketball at Arkansas State college one season but never played baseball there The school didn't have a team He broke into organized ball at 18 in 1940 in the Northeast Arkansas League with Newport, the same club that sent Pete Reiser and Whitey Kurowski to the majors.

In 1941 he hit 310 second best figure in the league The next season he went up with Lancaster in the Class B Interstate League He hit 299 and in '43 he improved 97 points to hit .396, top figure in organized ball that year. He received a solid silver Hillerich and Bradby bat for that feat

"Paul Krichell of the Yanks was around Pennsylvania that year and I thought the Yankees would get me," says George "But Mr Mack brought me to the A's. When he traded me for Barney McCoskey last May it was the best break I ever got If I had a choice of team I guess I'd pick Detroit It's a great baseball town"

Second Spot in Batting

Kell, top right-handed batter in the league, will remain in the second spot in the batting order, says O'Neill Though he hit only four homers last year he is one of the most feared hitters in the circuit Mickey Vernon, Washington's loop leader, and Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox were the only infielders to outhit the well-built five-foot-nine third baseman

He's a top fielder, too, having led the league in fielding the last two seasons

"I'll tell you the kind of a boy he is," says O'Neill "Last fall his year-old boy was sick in Arkansas the last week of the season He left the club on a Tuesday and returned for the last two games on a Saturday and a Sunday Now, not many players will come back to play two games You're just got to admire a kid like that"

Wehmeier Makes Bid for Red Job

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 25—Herman Wehmeier, big right-hander from Cincinnati, is making a strong bid to stick with the home-town Reds

Although he was nicked for five hits in four innings yesterday as the Redlegs downed the New York Yankees, 8-5, the six-two 185-pound rookie was impressive in the pinches—and he was in a couple of tight ones

In the eighth, he fanned Tommy Henrich with two men on bases He made Phil Rizzuto pop-up a game-ending foul with all the sacks occupied

The only run charged against Wehmeier who won 17 and dropped six for Columbia of the South Atlantic league last season, was Snuffy Stirnweiss' windblown homer

Cincinnati got nine timely safeties off Randy Gumpert and lefty Joe Page. Ted Kluszewski, rookie first baseman, put the Reds in front to stay with a 350-foot two-run homer in the first inning.

Awards Presented Middletown, Columbiana Borrowed from Columbus Store.

COLUMBUS O., March 25—Wrapping up the loose ends of the Ohio high school basketball championships—

Those medals and trophies presented to Middletown and Columbiana while thousands cheered at the coliseum Saturday were in the hands of noble athletes only a few minutes—and were strictly phoneys insofar as basketball was concerned

The awards, ordered last September, failed to arrive in time for the ceremonies, so a set was borrowed from a downtown store and presented to the victors. Columbiana received the set in the afternoon Middletown got it Saturday night and the store got it back Monday morning

If and when the correct ones arrive they'll be sent on to the champions

Expense and bonus checks to six of the eight finalists totaling $3,398—were mailed out today by Emswiler's office. East Liverpool and Phillipsburg, which had not yet filed expense accounts, were not included, but the commissioner expected their stipends would boist the total to over $4,000

Emswiler also announced that "financially the state athletic association is starting over, as of now" He said the association had $50,000 on hand, but that it would be placed in escrow to take care of the high school athletic insurance plan which he insisted would be in effect come September

He expected the association's profit from the 1947 tournament to exceed the $46 000 derived last year from the same source.

Outside the coliseum Saturday night, tickets for the Middletown-East Liverpool game were being "scalped" for as high as $18, with plenty of sales reported at $5 to $10

Some 3,000 persons couldn't jam their way in with the other 9,257 and Emswiler has a plan to take care of the outsiders next year He said he would hook up a loud speaker to the public announcement system, and blare the details to the non-ticket holders grouped around the big arena

Water Co. To Extend Mains In Several Streets This Year

Water mains in several streets will be extended in the next three months, Clarence Sanden, chairman of the utility committee of city council, told council Monday night at its regular meeting.

He said he had been informed by L. Otis Porter, manager of the Marion Water Co., that pipe on order since last summer has arrived or will be delivered in the near future and that work in several streets will begin within the next two or three weeks.

Expansion of water service in several streets has been authorized by council during the last several months, but the work has been held up by lack of pipe.

Immediately affected are Merchant avenue, Reed avenue, North Prospect street, Harcourt Place, Henry street, Ballentine avenue and Fountain street. Other short extensions are also under consideration. Another meeting of the council utility committee, city officials and water company officials will be held this week.

Mr. Porter said he expects to receive enough two-inch, six-inch and eight-inch pipe to complete all work authorized or likely to be authorized this year.

For Later Work

Extensions in Bennett, Huron, Smith and Washington streets will be made later this year, when eight-inch pipe is delivered, Mr. Porter said.

Lines expected to be laid in the immediate future total 4,000 feet.

Council also conducted a variety of routine business.

An area at the corner of Congress and Clinton streets was commercialized at public hearing last night. John and Tony G. Lombardo plan to erect a grocery store there. Charlton Myers, Marion attorney, represented the petitioners, emphasizing that they do not intend to sell intoxicating beverages.

Wires, poles, transformers and other electrical equipment at the joint city-FPHA veterans housing project west of Lincoln park were purchased by the city from FPHA for $192.37. The material will be resold by the city at the same price to the Ohio Public Service Co., which supplies power at the settlement. Safety-Service Director E. O. Umpher told council. The transfer is advisable, he said, to unify ownership, responsibility and liability in the electric supply.

Ball Park Lease

Paul D. Michel, Marion attorney, representing the Marion Baseball Co., inquired as to possibility of extension of the five-year lease now held by the baseball club on the city-owned baseball stadium and park. Extensive improvements are being contemplated by the club, he said, and its officials want to know if the lease is likely to be extended when it expires within the next two years. He was referred by Council President William G. Slack to the city solicitor and park board, who would give such a proposal preliminary consideration prior to its coming before council.

A claim of $36.75 was authorized to be paid Orville B. Manbeck, whose automobile, he said, was damaged when a manhole cover which he drove across at Bellefontaine and Cheney avenue Feb. 7 flipped over and struck the car.

The following petitions were received and referred to the planning commission:

James Willis, to erect a wall paper showroom at 271 Fairview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. MacDonald, to construct a concrete block building for a sheet metal shop on the rear of their lot at 176 Chicago avenue.

Councilman Harold F. Robinson directed the attention of council to the fact that city garbage trucks operate in the county and questioned the legality of such operation. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

Councilman Clarence K. Salter complained that trains are continuing to block west side crossing for long periods. The chief of police and safety-service director were directed to contact railroad officials concerning the allegation.

race, color, religion or national ancestry.

Other hearings attracting attention included one by the senate education committee on a measure by the Hamilton county delegation to continue the school foundation program on its present basis and appropriate $14,500,000 a year in addition for teacher salary bonuses. The measure is in opposition to the Daniels-Cramer school bill to increase the foundation program to an $85,000,000-a-year basis, about $25,000,000 above the present total.

Hears Highway Bill

The senate highway committee called its second hearing on a bill to authorize construction of super-highways to be paid for out of tolls while the house taxation group took up an administration measure to repeal the amusement admissions levy and permit municipalities to collect the tax.

The senate unanimously passed and sent to the house last night a proposal by Sen. Virgil E. Cramer (R-Lucas) to allow retired teachers to return to classrooms for two years to help alleviate the current teacher shortage.

A measure introduced in the upper chamber by Sens. Ralph W. Winter (R-Medina) and C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) proposed creation of a nine-member commission to study Ohio's tax laws with a view towards recodification.

"Tax Structure Indicted"

The fact that schools, local governments and other groups are financially embarrassed," Winter said, "is an indictment against our tax structure."

CARDINGTON COUNCIL ASKS RAIL SIGNALS

Special to The Star

CARDINGTON — The village council during a meeting last Friday passed a resolution recommending the New York Central Railway Co. to install additional warning signals at the West Main street crossing. The signal would be the type that flashes the word 'STOP' in red letters on and off in unison with the present signals in a vertical position on both sides of the poles. This type of flasher is believed by the council to be of such nature that it will attract the attention of drivers more quickly than the present ones which hang out over the street on pole approximately 14 feet from the ground.

This is the crossing where six Cleo, Mich., residents were killed and one seriously injured Sunday, March 2 in a train-auto collision.

Mayor Richeson appointed a building committee to secure plans and an estimated cost on the erection of a one story concrete block building to house the two fire trucks and the street truck. The building is to be large enough to provide space for the mayor's office, council chamber and the jail.

The mayor also appointed a committee to secure plans and the estimated cost of a white way lighting arrangements to be placed through the business district on Main and Marion streets.

It Seems Strange, But Meat and Pianos Mix

By The United Press

CHICAGO—The piano business is looking up now that the meat shortage is over.

And it's not because strong, husky, well-fed men are needed to push pianos around the factory, William A. Mills, executive secretary of the National Association of Music Merchants, said.

"We've had a lot of trouble getting glue, essential animal glue, but plenty has been coming in recently," Mills said.

MARSHALL

eign ministers who has not made a Kremlin call.

American quarters in Moscow noted with interest the fact that Bevin's visit resulted after he had inquired about some conversations concerning revision of the British-Soviet alliance and that Bidault's visit also resulted from an initial move on his part.

Belief thus has grown that Marshall may not be invited until he indicates some interest in a meeting himself. His feeling is reported to be that such a tete-a-tete would be most profitable after German issues before the council are clearly drawn.

A Stalin - Marshall meeting probably would be a lively one at any time since persons close to the American secretary say he is prepared to discuss in the firmest manner the basic U. S. policy toward Russia, if the subject comes up and such things as Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson's testimony regarding Russia and Turkey are keeping the situation well stirred up here.

Land Values Increase In Morrow County

MT. GILEAD, March 25—An increase in land values of 93.07 per cent in Morrow county during the period 1935 to 1945 was reported in a survey made by Claude I. Hummel, agricultural specialist of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

The increase according to Hummel's figures is considerably more than any of eight neighboring countries.

Average value of land per acre in Morrow county was $37.64 in 1935 as compared to $72.67 in 1945.

INCREASED WHEAT TO LOWER OTHER YIELDS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Increased winter wheat plantings last fall will cause Ohio farmers to decrease acreages of other crops this spring with the exception of hay.

The Ohio cooperative crop reporting service, in a survey of winter wheat plantings last September and prospects of indicated spring planting, reported today that farmers planted 20 per cent more wheat for 1947 and will boost their hay crop one per cent generally.

Glen S. Ray, service statistician, reported that the September, 1946, winter wheat planting totaled 2,219,000 acres against 1,849,000 the previous fall and a 1936-45 average of 2,074,000.

Hay, Ray indicated, would be planted to 2,561,000 acres against 2,536,000 last year and 2,530,000 for the 1936-45 average.

Corn, he said, probably would be one per cent off in 1947 with an indicated acreage of 3,634,000 against 3,671,000 and 3,493,000 for the ten-year average.

Greatest crop cuts are planned in oats and soybeans the forecast showed. Oats probably will be down six per cent from 1,410,000 acres last year to 1,325,000 acres in 1947 though still considerably above the ten-year average of 1,173,000.

From totals of 971,000 in 1946 and 929,000 for the ten-year average, soybean acreage this year is expected to drop to 922,000, a contrast to an expected national planting gain of six per cent to 12,213,000 acres.

Truman Gets Bowling Alley as Birthday Gift

WASHINGTON, March 25 — A bowling alley is being set up in the White House basement as a birthday present for President Truman who will be 63 May 8.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters today that the two-alley affair is a gift from "a group of anonymous donors."

The alleys, Ross said, will be regulation in every way and will have automatic pin setters.

ORDER FOR ARMED FORCES UNITY DRAWN

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower testified today that a detailed presidential order for unification of the army, navy and air forces already is prepared and awaits only congressional approval or basic legislation.

The five-star general told the senate armed services committee that this order was "agreed upon" as part of the army-navy compromise that produced the present legislative plan for a single department of national defense.

Questions by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who has been critical of the merger legislation, disclosed existence of the proposed president's order.

Chairman Gurney (R-SD) immediately called for a copy of and Eisenhower after conferring with Admiral C. W. Nimitz and Undersecretary of War Royall produced a copy.

U. S. SEEKS BEGININNG ON ATOMIC TREATY

By The Associated Press

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Mar. 25—The United States delegation to the United Nations atomic energy commission wants to work now on drafting a treaty for atomic controls, an informed source said today.

This informant, who would be further identified, said U. S. atomic experts would go into the first closed meetings of the working committee of the atomic commission today, with a firm idea that the delegates should start immediately preparing a treaty.

It was recognized that a long and hard road lay ahead but the commission is under orders to frame a treaty on convention "due course" and the Americans were said to be ready to tackle the task immediately.

This was the first anniversary of the formal opening of United Nations activities in the United States.

CITY ICE AND FUEL CO. ANNOUNCES 1946 PROFIT

$5,888,000, Double 1945 Figure, Reported as Earnings.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 25—William J. Sinek president of The City Ice and Fuel company, announced 1946 net profits of $5,888,000 in the annual report mailed today to stockholders. This compared with profits of $2,775,000 for 1945. Per share earnings in 1946 were $4.67 as against $2.41 in 1945.

Net sales for 1946 totaled $57,766,000 an increase of $3,700,000 over 1945, the largest previous volume year. Sinek attributed the sales increase to expanded production facilities principally in Florida and Arizona, and to intensified sales efforts in connection with increasing diversification of company activities.

Quarterly dividends of 40 cents per share were paid during the first three quarters of 1946. The payment was increased to 50 cents for the fourth quarter.

City Ice, with headquarters in Chicago, does business in 26 states Canada and Mexico. The broadcasts, starting Friday and continuing this week, have been put on direct by NBC and MBS and both direct and from transcription by ABC.

The difference followed an NBC announcement over the weekend that it had "scored another radio 'first' with acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson's testimony before the house foreign affairs committee." Immediately MBS representatives claimed their network had a precedent in its relays from the senate was investigating committee hearings on Senator Bilbo of Mississippi early in January.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

"NOEL! Darling! Oh, it's been so long since I've seen you!"

Mary's exquisite caroling voice was something to remember.

"It's been eternity!" her husband said huskily, and then I heard no more for Dicky was rushing me through the door into the sitting room, and I was glad to be rushed I had no more desire than he to listen to that glad but anxious reunion

Distinctly Not Needed

"There's one place we're distinctly not needed," my husband said "Come over here and listen to what Dr. Twitchell's been telling me"

He put me into a chair opposite that of the physician, and drew one up himself, close to me

"Dr Twitchell's giving the love birds in there ten minutes," he said, "so I have time to spill you a little side light on the price of potatoes. I give you three guesses —you'll need only one—as to the identity of the person who brought Noel down here tonight, and wanted—rather demanded — the boon of also seeing Mary"

"Philip Veritzen?" I asked.

"None other," my husband replied "But, oh, boy, would it have done your soul good to see Dr Twitchell deflate him! Doctor, you positively were pontifical!"

"I had to be," the old physician replied. "I strained a point to let her husband see Mrs. Veritzen But I would have been recreant to my Hippocratic oath if I had let anyone so full of disturbing possibilities as her father-in-law speak to her tonight"

A Precarious Condition

"Dr Twitchell told him," Dicky went on, 'and he let Noel have an earful at the same time, that Mary was in a precarious condition, nervously and physically, although he hoped absolute rest and quiet, and the feeling of being near her loved ones, would bring her back to health without the aid of drugs

"But," Dicky went on, "Philip was given to understand, in no uncertain terms, that Dr. Twitchell would not be responsible if, at this stage, the precarious balance between recovery and collapse were upset by Mary's seeing anyone whom it was not absolutely necessary for her to see

"He told Philip," Dicky went on, "that he had debated seriously the advisability of letting even Noel see her tonight, but that Mary's longing to see her husband was so strong he had decided that keeping him away would do her more harm than the excitement of her seeing him But he cautioned Noel, before Philip, not to be deceived by the brilliance of her eyes nor by her color—of course we all know Mary's matchless skill at make-up—and to keep his ten-minute interview free from any excitement; just to welcome her home without any questions as to her reason for coming"

Madge Pessimistic

"If only Noel will stick to that, I said pessimistically

"He knows I'll take the hide offen him inch by inch, if he doesn't!" Mary's uncle said belligerently, and Dr. Twitchell chuckled

"I think the young man will follow orders," he said "I wish I were as sure that his father, although he appeared to be tractable enough when he departed But I know he is a very tenacious individual"

"That is putting it mildly," Dicky said. "No pedigreed bull terrier ever had a more gripping jaw than old Phil Veritzen when he sets his teeth into anything But, for the present, you sure put the fear of Jehovah into him"

The physician chuckled again, and I took advantage of the pause to put a direct question

"How serious is Mary's condition, really?" I asked

He looked at me with keen, steady scrutiny

"I am wondering if perhaps you could tell me something which could help me answer that question," he said

"Why—why—" I stammered in bewilderment. "I don't know what you mean!"

"I mean simply this," he said "Do you know whether young Mrs Veritzen is facing some terrific mental problem? In simpler language, what is on her mind?"
